

VIRTUAL OPENED SHARE MODE SYSTEM WITH VIRUS PROTECTION

ABSTRACT

A system, method and computer program product are provided for protecting a computer in an opened share mode. Initially, a computer is run on a network in an opened share mode. In operation, attempts to access the computer by applications are monitored. Further, it is determined whether the applications attempt to modify the computer. A security event is then executed in response to any attempt to modify the computer.